My Beat — A.H.S.

By Adella Gagliardiucci

I would like to think Mrs. McLean and everyone else who made it possible for me to gain this marvelous experience in the journalism field. Also the students and faculty of Agawam High School who helped me by cooperating and being helpful in my attempts to scout for news. Next year Jo-Ann Della Giustina will write My Beat AHS bringing a bit of AHS into your home every week.

Tomorrow night at the West Springfield Coliseum before 2000 relatives and friends, garbed in the traditional maroon and white caps and gowns, the class will march too Pomp and Circumstance as they end their high school careers.

After the benediction, Supt. James Clark will welcome the seniors and guests. The Senior Choral will then sing the memorable Class Song of 1965. Following the singing senior group, Mr. F. Joseph Napolitan and Mr. Philip DeForge, co-chairman of the School Committee, will jointly award diplomas to the 260 graduates.

For Sunday, June 20 at Stanley Park, Westfield, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., rain or shine. The church has the use of the pavilion and kitchen... a complete dinner will be served to you, so no planning and packing for lunch. Recreation and games for all ages. Tickets available from Perry McCobb, Florence Blish, Rev. Sweeney, David Sweeney, church school teachers.

During the next three months seven members of the Youth Pilgrim Fellowship will be attending summer conferences sponsored by the Massachusetts Pilgrim Fellowship: Joyce Goodwin, June 14-26, Deering, N. H.; Stephen Femmel and Kenneth Goodwin, June 27-July 4; Keith Saunderson, Steven Sweeney and Linda Allen, Craigville, Mass.; Carol Goodwin, August 9-16, Framingham, Mass.

uating seniors. Mr. Frederick Dacy, AHS principal, will announce several scholarships and awards to deserving seniors.

The organ will then begin the traditional Recessional. This marks the keynote moment in the lives of 260 youngsters, as they individually march into the world to find and secure their place in society. The years ahead will mold each student's path taken in life.

Now the graduates must say goodbye to Agawam High School, its faculty and underclassmen. But the wonderful memories of our unforgettable four years in its hallowed halls will never be lost. Our education gained at Agawam High has become a part of us and will never leave us.

Tomorrow night is a formality telling us that we have matured enough to leave our sheltered sphere of home and enter the working world or college. Whatever field you enter Graduate of 1965, I sincerely wish you success and happiness.

I know none of you who graduate tomorrow night will forget the gay and sad times our class has shared these past four years. We enjoyed our class parties, dramatics including the senior play Cheaper by the Dozen, our Junior Cabaret, the prom Parisian Ecstasy, the prom in our honor this year Sayonara, our fun-filled Kid Party, the football rallies, and hockey games... all are now only memories, but lasting ones.

Princess to Visit

Washington

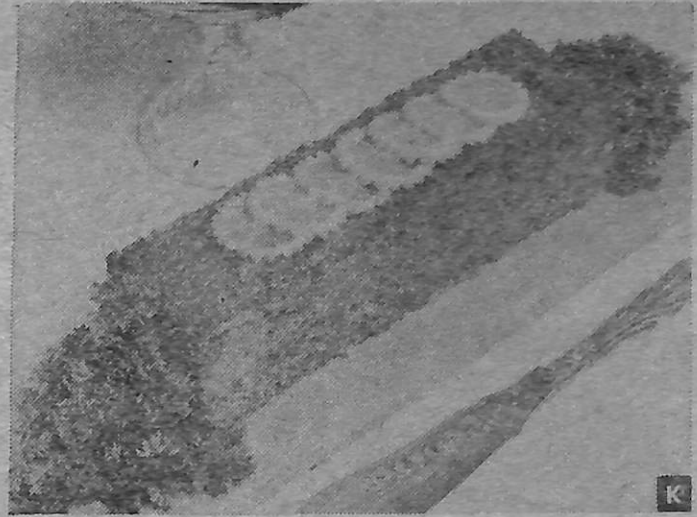

Princess Margaret, sister of Great Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, will visit the United States for about three weeks next November, the British Embassy has announced.

She will be accompanied by her husband Lord Snowden, the former Antony Armstrong-Jones.

The embassy announcement said the couple will visit San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington and New York.

The trouble with our foreign relations—they are living beyond our means.

Serve it Hot or Cold

Bright slices of lemon complement this handsome Salmon Loaf in both color and flavor. It's a wonderfully good summer family dish to serve either hot or cold.

When the mainstay of a summer meal is canned salmon, a delicious loaf can be prepared with a minimum of effort. Here is an especially delicious and nutritious loaf recipe that serves eight. You can serve it hot one day, and what is leftover is equally good a day or two later. Its cost is low and its goodness is guaranteed with every bite.

SALMON CHEESE LOAF

- 1 cup elbow macaroni
- 3 cups milk
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
- 1 1-pound can salmon
- 6 eggs
- 1 4-ounce can pimiento, drained and chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onions
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs

- 2 teaspoons salt
- Dash cayenne pepper
- 1 cup grated American cheese

Cook macaroni in 6 cups boiling salted water for 10 minutes. Drain and rinse.

In a small saucepan combine milk, butter and liquid from can of salmon. Heat until mixture is hot and butter is melted.

Beat eggs until light and beat in the hot butter-milk mixture. Add pimiento, macaroni, onion, bread crumbs, salt and cayenne. Flake and add salmon and mix lightly.

Turn mixture into an oiled loaf pan (11 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 3/4) and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven for 50 to 60 minutes. Garnish with lemon slices and clusters of parsley and serve hot or cold, with a favorite sauce, if desired. Serves 8.

Clink, Clank, Clunk

Washington

Alas, the poor dime and quarter. Sometime next year, Congress willing, they will lose their bell-like ring and their self-polishing silver sheen and become like the mousey nickel. They will be gray and dull and undistinguished and worth just the same as today (barring changes in the consumer price index). So argues a Johnson message to Congress.

Deep inside will be a core of pure copper that will gleam quietly by itself, mostly unseen, because the air that tarnishes the penny will never get at it—except at the edge. There, we are told, the copper will show through the outside cupranickel alloy, in a new kind of modern, two-toned bimetalism within a single coin that would have terrified William Jennings Bryan, the great advocate of the bimetalism of silver and gold. Had such a proposal been made in his time, the famed silver-tongued oratory of the Great Commoner would no doubt have been cupranickel coated.

Silver itself, whose pressure for markets was a political force in the United States for decades, is in drastically short supply now. Its once-rich veins are sadly unable to meet the demands of the age of insert-the-coin-and-press-the-button. The new half dollar will look almost the same but don't ask what's inside. Only the silver dollar will continue to ring regally amid the clunging of coins in the pocket.

At Your Service

DAVID C. GALLANO
Director of Veterans Services

The Veterans Administration has joined President Johnson's campaign to find summer jobs for the nation's youth, including 25,000 in the federal government, David Gallano, manager of the VA Office, Agawam, said today.

The goal is to open up at least 500,000 job opportunities over and above normal summer employment for young men and women, 16 through 21 years who will be leaving classrooms in June.

"The VA heartily subscribes to this program of providing opportunities, as far as practicable, to boys and girls who need them the most because of economic or educational disadvantages," Mr. Gallano said. We plan to hire four employees.

Vice President Humphrey has been appointed to direct this Youth Opportunity Program. The Vice President is not only seeking the cooperation of national and state governments, but has solicited help from business firms, labor unions, newspapers, trade associations and municipalities across the nation.

Altogether, Mr. Humphrey reported, more than one million pieces of mail have gone out, and pledges of cooperation are pouring in as the result.

State Employment Service offices will be focal points for filling employer needs. These offices will be able to supply interested youths to employers who want to provide work and training opportunities, or to furnish additional information about the Youth Opportunity Campaign.

Mr. Boston Distiller Offers New Rum

Mr. Boston Distiller announces the availability of a new premium rum under the Old Mr. Boston label. This new rum is called Anejo (pronounced AN-YEAH-HO). Anejo is a Spanish word meaning "to be aged venerably." This is exactly what sets Anejo rum apart from any of the others currently on the market.

Most of the world's best rums come from the sunny and exotic islands of the Caribbean. Old Mr. Boston eighty proof Onejo is equal or superior in quality to any of the vintage rums enjoyed for years by those who visit or live in this area.

Because Anejo is made from carefully selected Virgin Island sugar canes, and placed in wooden casks to soak in the warmth of the bright Caribbean sun, it possesses a mellow brandy-like flavor, unique among rums. The special flavor of this Anejo is not drowned out in Daiquiris, Collins, or other rum cocktails.

Cranberry Bread Pudding

Next time you're serving your favorite bread pudding or crunch, try adding cranberry-orange relish for zesty new flavor and color.

PROMENADERS

SQUARE DANCE

By Beryl and Doug Shaylor

Howdy partners, corners too. We are very pleased and happy to succeed Al and Elaine Taupier as Publicity Chairmen for the Agawam Promenaders. Al and Elaine have done an excellent job over the past year and we are certain they will do an equally outstanding job as Program Chairmen in the coming season.

We enjoyed the calling of Chip Hendrickson at our last regular Club Dance. Chip really kept things moving and all club members enjoyed him immensely as did a group from Enfield who earned a banner for their Square Dance Club.

A number of couples from the Promenaders danced to six callers at the Spring Fling at Mt. Park on May 31st. An extremely large turnout enjoyed a full day of square dancing at its best.

NEXT DANCE

Friday evening, June 11th, will be the last regular club dance this season. "Old Smoothie" Dick Steele, club caller, will be making his last appearance in this area until next Fall. We hope all club members and many area dancers will be on hand to give Dick a rousing send-off on his summer vacation.

COMING EVENTS

The Club's annual Steak Roast

will be held June 26th at the Sacred Heart Pavillion. This is a closed dance for Promenader Club members only. Our club's own Dick Mastriani will be calling. Tino and Anita Davilli are in charge of arrangements with Ken and Edith Clouse, Doug and Adele Cochrane and Charlie and Vickie Donovan assisting. Members may may reservations by contacting the Davillis of 229 North St., Feeding Hills, at 788-8551 or any of the other above committee members.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

By Bill Chiba

Doc Pisano, local barber, reports that his son, Joe, and his brother-in-law, Frank Pinkowski, have diagnosed the perfect method for taking lake trout out of Quabbin Reservoir on a regular basis. The trio have been fishing out of Gate 8 every Monday. Doc would go only so far as to say that they have located three separate sand bars, and the action is taken place in these locations.

Faster Pace

Three times as many lake trout were taken the first two weeks this year than during the same period last year. According to division creel census, these fish, reproduced naturally in the Quabbin, averaged 2½ pounds and accounted for 90 percent of the lake trout taken during that period.

The big lakers being taken to a top of 10½ pounds are fish stocked there several years ago, Bill Tompkins, chief aquatic biologist of the division reports.

The average Quabbin fisherman spends about seven hour per trip with about a 35 percent success rate at this time of year. The Gate 8 area has produced the greatest number of lakers, but the largest have been brought in by anglers fishing out of Gate 43 in Hardwick.

Brown and rainbow trout fishing has been slower this year than it was last season. The current 1965 record catches are a 13 pound brown trout and a rainbow that tipped the scales at 5¼ pounds. Browns from 5 to 12 pounds are being taken with regularity, while the overall average of all browns taken is 2½ pounds, respectable fish for anyone. Rainbows are averaging 3 pounds.

Southern Vermont

The Vermont Fish & Game Department announced today that two contracts have been awarded for constructing new public fishing impoundments in southern Vermont. These are additional links in a planned program to provide a chain of public trout fishing impoundments in this part of the state where natural lakes and ponds are quite scarce.

The first project, "Gale Meadows," was let to Welch and Corr, General Contractors, from West Springfield, Mass. A 210-acre public fishing lake, access road and anglers' parking area will be created at an estimated cost of $85,510. The dam for this sizeable body of water will be in Londonderry, the major portion of the impoundment in Winhall.

The second project, "Weatherhead Hollow Pond," will impound an area of 35 acres in Guilford. Warner Bros., Inc. of Sunderland, Mass., was awarded this contract at $45,140.

How Fine Is Fine

Al Witek, co-owner of Witek's Sports Shop, Meadow St., Westfield, is a purist to the first degree when it comes to fishing for trout. Al is strictly a fly fisherman and is always looking for ways to better the sport and creel more fish. Well, this time he has come up with a "lulu." Al, after many hit and misses, has developed three new tippets... 6-7-and 8x. The 6x tests out at ¾ pound, the 7x at ½ pound, and the 8x at 1/3 pound. The 8x is finer than the hair on your head, in fact it is just .003 thick. When you flip out a fly using the 8x tippet, the fly just floats lazily down and settles ever so gently on the water. The fish is not spooked by this action. Al is

FIRST AID FOR FISHERMEN

Accidents that befall fishermen are comparatively few. Most that do occur are temporarily painful, though not necessarily serious. However, all are potentially dangerous.

The average man who spends most of his fishing hours comfortably ensconced on a boat cushion may never encounter a serious accident, note the folks at Mercury outboards. Outside of dodging wild casts of his partner, being careful to close his tackle box and avoiding the horns on a catfish, he'll enjoy a long, fishing life.

Most problems arise from carelessness... like sitting down on a tray full of lures, or caving about a rocky slipe while intent on reaching hole below. You can get a nasty gash filleting a fish, or perhaps burned while smoking and filling a gasoline lantern.

Caution prevents such accidents. Precaution can keep the minor ones from becoming serious.

This latter truism is particularly important when one considers how easily possible complications can be avoided by advance preparation.

Tetanus shots and regular boosters are recommended for all who go afield, as well as those who do not. In snake country, a snake bite kit is good insurance. A small first aid kit should always be handy; if not, thoroughly scrubbing a laceration with soap and clean water can prevent infection almost as well as many commonly carried antiseptics.

Improvise the best you can and get prompt medical attention, urges Mercury. This is no field for the "do-it-yourselfers."

Alertness is the best way to prevent mishaps. So tread carefully and sit gingerly. And be prepared to assist the guy who doesn't.

very enthused with this new creation, and has invited this scribe to join him in an excursion to the Battenkill River in Vermont, to try out the tippets on the wily trout that inhabit that fabulous stream. You guessed it... we have accepted.

Storowton Music Fair Open For Seventh Season With 'Tropical Paradise'

Storowton Music Fair in West Springfield, Mass., opened its seventh season of musicals Monday with a one-week engagement of a most unique attraction. Producer Wally Beach assembled a special musical show featuring Polynesian and Caribbean entertainers, called "Tropical Paradise." The show will not be seen in any other theatres this summer.

Headlining the lush musical is Hawaiian baritone Ed Kenney, who comes to the Music Fair directly from a lengthy engagement at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel on Waikiki Beach. Most popular singer in Hawaii today, Kenney came to the attention of Rodgers and Hammerstein when he played the lead in their hit "Oklahoma!" in Honolulu. The famed musical comedy authors offered him a scholarship at the American Theatre Wing and shortly after gave him the juvenile lead in their Broadway hit, "Flower Drum Song." He played the lead in the musical "13 Daughters" on Broadway, and has recorded a number of albums for Columbia Records and ABC-Paramount. He will return to the Royal Hawaiian after the Music Fair engagement.

The rhythms of Trinidad, Jamaica, Nassau and Bermuda are drummed out in the show by Rupert Sterling's Steel Band, and a group of Polynesians demonstrate the best of Hawaiian dances. That fascinating dance, the limbo, is performed by Doni LaMarr, considered among the foremost exponents of the art. Dr. Hansen and his famed Tropical Birds round out the unusual show.

The opening night show will be prefaced by a gala series of entertainments and events on the Music Fair Green, all of which were televised live over a local network. Ann Corio, will headline the second show of the season, "This Was Burlesque."

LEGION AUXILIARY UNIT NEWS

by Virginia Catchepaugh

Flag Day

Over 130 years ago, Daniel Webster expressed the popular sentiment toward Representative Government when he said: "When men may speak out, they demand it; where the bayonet is at their throat, they pray for it." The American Legion urges you to "speak out" for what we have by displaying your Flag. Next week we celebrate an important birthday, the birthday of our Flag. The American Legion reminds you to display your country's Flag on Flag Day, June 14th.

Elections

Elections of Wilson-Thompson Unit #185 officers will be held at the Legion Home on Monday, June 21st. Preceding the business meeting a picnic will be held on the Legion Home grounds.

TODAY'S AGRI-FACT

When the time arrives, as it will, that you are looking for a substitute for asparagus on toast, Lou Webster reminds us to try green onions on toast instead. Here in Massachusetts we call them scallions, in the South they are called shallots, in Providence, R. I., they call them rareripes.

On the lawn

WITH LARRY LAWRENCE

I have a letter here from a reader who says, "A number of years ago I had two trees cut and stumps removed on my front lawn. Now I continually have mushrooms and toadstools popping up in the area where the trees used to be. What can I do to get rid of them?"

These toadstools and mushrooms — not recommended for supper by the way—spring up in the lawn because of decaying organic matter in the soil. Maybe, a piece of board or other builder's debris that was buried when the lawn was graded.

Sometimes these fungi appear in a clump, sometimes in circular bands, four or five inches wide, known as "fairy rings" that spread outwards in a widening circle from year to year. In any case, they're unsightly.

I won't guarantee that you can get rid of them permanently and absolutely. They can be very persistent. But if you will punch holes 3 or 4 inches into the soil with a spading fork and apply Scotts Scudl at double rate, and do this twice a year, you'll certainly keep the infection under control. With luck it may disappear entirely. Your Agawam dealer—

Ice Cream Joined Cones In 1904

On a sizzling summer day at the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair, an ice-cream vendor faced a crisis—no more serving dishes.

E. M. Hamwi, a concessionaire who sold crisp sugar waffles, quickly came to the rescue. He shaped his penny confections into cones to hold the ice cream. The portable, eatable combination was an instant success and still is.

Ice-cream-happy Americans lick away more than four billion servings in cones each year, according to the National Geographic Society. More than half are consumed during the hot summer months. Once restricted to vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry, ice-cream cones nowadays offer some 200 flavors ranging from bubble gum and blueberry cheesecake to pumpkin, licorice, sunflower seed, raisin, rhubarb, and root beer.

Ice cream is no mere hot weather delight. Eskimos like it so much they use hard-earned trapping money to buy ice cream. A company in Alaska flies supplies north to such frigid spots as Nome, Teller, and Lost River.

Ice cream is probably more popular than borscht in Russia. In Japan, tempura restaurants serve fried ice cream, made by dipping frozen scoops in batter and frying them quickly in deep fat.

Ice cream has been enjoyed in one form or another since Roman times. Emperor Nero kept his slaves busy running snow for confections from the nearest white-capped mountains to Rome.

Some three centuries ago, Charles I of England introduced
